FISCHER'S JOINT RAIDED LAST NIGHT

F. Fischer, the wary, was finally caught last night with the goods, and now rests in the lockup on two, or possibly three, charges. For a long time it has been known that he was selling liquor without a license at his joint on Queen street, just Waikiki of Richards streat, but evidence strong enough to convict was lacking.

Last night the case was different and the police have several witnesses to the act of selling liquor to some sailors and Porto Rican damsels.

A case of beer, several empty beer bottles and a number of glasses with murder trial. the foam still showing, were taken along as evidence. The other charges against Fischer are for keeping a disorderly house and for assault and battery. Rudolph Petrack, his assistant, was also locked up on the charge of selling liquor without a license.

The other arrests of the evening were not very numerous, several drunks and assault cases making up the number.
